Michele Watson, PT is in support of the use of aides performing patient related tasks but would like to define the type of tasks the aide can perform.

Katie Rath, Physical Therapy Aide is in support of aides performing patient related tasks. Working as an aide has allowed her the experience to decide if she wanted to pursue becoming a physical therapist, especially since the education expense is over $50,000.

Marijean Piorkowski, PT, is in support of aides performing patient related tasks but would also like to clarify the type of tasks aides could perform.

1. Practice Issues Inquiries –

   A. Review X-Rays and Measure Cobb Angles – Susan Martin, PT

   The Committee discussed this issue and directed staff to seek more information on what type of research is being done and who is doing the research?

   B. Order of X-Rays – Robyn Todd

   The Committee directed staff to respond that the Physical Therapy Practice Act precludes a physical therapist from actually taking x-rays or utilizing x-rays to make a diagnosis. A physical therapist can only take x-rays if they are also certified as a radiologist technician through the Department of Health Services. The physical therapist is required to obtain a diagnosis from another professional that is licensed to diagnose in order to treat physical therapy. The Committee directed staff to send the Direct Access letter which explains a physical therapist needing a diagnosis to treat. However, the Physical Therapy Practice Act does not preclude a physical therapist from ordering an x-ray.
